Head of English & Literacy Across the Curriculum

TLR 1a (salary negotiable for exceptional candidate)

Are you an English practitioner who loves inspiring young minds and is passionate about the subject? Do you have the potential to lead a team of English teachers to deliver success in a Head of Department role?

Newsome is an 11 – 16 comprehensive school set in spectacular countryside in South Huddersfield. With around 530 pupils on roll and 40 highly qualified teaching staff supplemented by a very strong team of support staff, we can offer a broad and balanced curriculum whilst ensuring that we create a safe, happy and caring environment. Students are happy here and learn well, achieving success in many aspects of life. Being a small school enables us to know each and every child well and this gives our school a special sense of community – something which most schools can lack.

We are looking to recruit an energetic and enthusiastic Head of English & Literacy who is passionate about their subject and inspirational to their students. This is an exciting time in the journey of our school; as such we are seeking to appoint the right English candidate to enable us to move forwards in our next chapter.

Newsome High is a small Secondary school with a community of teachers and pupils that show care and compassion for each other. We place our value in the person, recognising that each life is unique and precious. This is evident in our English team where teamwork and a focus on positive relationships is at the heart of what we do. Our English Department are seeking to appoint a well-qualified, innovative and talented teacher. We are looking for an outstanding classroom practitioner with the ability to lead and influence others to achieve exceptional performance.

Are you ready to join us on our exciting journey?
